Wanadoo, Freeserve, Web.de and Libero launch a leading pan-european advertising network

Cooperation of six leading national portals gives access to 30 million unique users in Europe

Wanadoo, Freeserve, Web.de and Libero today announce the launch of a leading Pan-European advertising network based in Europe. The new network, which has already signed several major deals, runs across six countries – UK, France, Spain, Germany, The Netherlands and Italy, giving advertisers access to 30 million unique users, 2 billions pages viewed per month¹ and a very high reach rate in each market.

The network is formed by six leading national portals, which rank among the top 5 audience in their home markets: Wanadoo France, Wanadoo Spain, Wanadoo Netherlands, Freeserve (part of the Wanadoo group) for the UK, Libero for Italy, and WEB.DE for Germany, each of them having an indepth knowledge of their local market, customers and business practices. The portals joined their forces to better answer the need of the fast growing online advertising market.

The European solution for online advertising

The network answers customer demand for a powerful pan-european ressource and reflects the increase in online advertising spend across Europe. Its structure gives a single point of contact for the customer and allows fast and flexible country specific consulting, with support and implementation across the whole handling process.
